

The FCC was formed, in part, to help assure fairness and integrity in broadcasting. To that end, the FCC's job has never been more critical than it is right now.

Sinclair Broadcasting's decision to force their stations to air an anti-Kerry documentary days before the election is a clear example of the dangers of media consolidation.

Allowing this broadcast to go unquestioned would be a clear signal to broadcasters that the FCC is on its way to becoming irrelevant.

It's time for the FCC to prove it is not irrelevant. Demand that Sinclair Broadcasting fulfill its charter.
